EXAMINER'S AMENDMENT

1. An examiner's amendment to the record appears below. Should the changes and/or additions be unacceptable to applicant, an amendment may be filed as provided by 37 CFR 1.312. To ensure consideration of such an amendment, it MUST be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee.

The application has been amended as follows:

In line 1 of claim 15; delete "Use according to claim 14" and insert —The method of claim 16—

Allowable Subject Matter

1. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: Applicants have claimed a fabric treatment composition comprising a textile compatible carrier and water insoluble particles having a layered structure comprising oxygen atoms and silicon and/or phosphorus atoms, and comprising organic functional groups which are bonded to silicon and/or phosphorous atoms in the layers by direct covalent bonds between the silicon and/or phosphorus atoms and a carbon atom.

The closest prior art of Hanauer et al, US 4,742,039 teaches adsorbents based on organophyllosilicates that are suitable as additives for enhancing the washing action in detergents (see abstract). Applicants have stated for the record that this reference does not satisfy the claim limitations for the reasons set forth below:

Hanauer et al (US 4,742,039) discloses organophilic phyllosilicates (and not organophyllosilicates) that are organo clay particles in which the organic species (ammonium quat) sits in the interstitial spaces between the layers of the clay. Hanauer describes that this is achieved by ion exchange, in which the charge balancing hydrogen or metal cations initially present are preferentially exchanged for the charged ammonium compounds (column 4, lines 51-55, column 3, lines 48-50). That these cations are extraneous, and therefore not an integral part of the framework of the clay is disclosed at column 3, lines 45-48. Both natural and synthetic clays are disclosed, and while a synthesis of synthetic clays is described, the person skilled in the art is taught away from introducing organic species during the synthesis, see column 3, lines 53-55. Even if the skilled person did try out the process referred to at column 3, line 52 and described in detail at column 3, line 56 to column 4, line 33, "in the presence of small amounts of organic compounds" (column 3, lines 52-55), the organo clay resulting would only contain the organic compounds in the interstitial spaces, and not covalently bound to inorganic groups of the clay (as required by the present invention). Nowhere is a clay containing direct covalent bonds between the organic groups and the Si or P groups of the clay disclosed, only electrostatic bonds between the charged clay layer surface and the charged organic compound.

In light of these arguments, the rejection is withdrawn, and as no other prior art rejections remain, the present claims are allowable.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
